Walk into wards at hospitals and you might have noticed they have started using a hand sanitizer dispenser to prevent the spread of bacteria. A Hand Sanitizer contains a waterless cleaning agent that contains alcohol and all you need is one quick spray and your hands are well protected from germs. You can understand the need for a Hand Sanitizer within a healthcare setting to prevent the spread of germs. But would you consider using a Hand Sanitizer in your home as well as traditional soap and water?

There are a growing number of Hand Sanitizer units being used within the domestic setting as people gradually begin to realise the importance of effective hygiene solutions. A Hand Sanitizer is the simple to use device that can and will prevent the spread of infections.

Think soap and water is enough?

You could be in for a shock. Most people naturally assume that by cleaning their hands with soap and water they are protected from germs. Theyâ€™ll happily handle food after using water little realising that the water could be contaminated.

For total peace of mind the only way youâ€™ll know that your hands are disinfected is to use a Hand sanitizer. One spray from a hand sanitizer dispenser and your hands are germ-free. The Hand Sanitizer is the failsafe device that gives you total hand hygiene. Hand washes and water just arenâ€™t good enough you need a Hand Sanitizer for complete protection.

Pop a Hand Sanitizer in your kitchen, bathroom or en-suite facilities and start using it on a regular basis. Get the whole family up to speed using the Hand Sanitizer and donâ€™t take chances with your health and hygiene.

Spray, rub and go

Using a hand sanitizer dispenser couldnâ€™t be much simpler. A range of pump action and automatic Hand sanitizer units are on the market sector and you simply spray your hands, rub in the alcohol solution and it dries in an instance.

Thereâ€™s no stickiness involved with a Hand Sanitizer and your hands are pampered thanks to the addition of aloe vera to the alcohol. The Hand Sanitizer dispenser is easy to refill and youâ€™ll find it takes an age before it needs replenishing.

Plus you can buy portable types of Hand Sanitizer units that give you protection on the go. Take them to work, pop one in your bag when you go shopping and you can use the Hand Sanitizer anytime that you like.

If you value hygiene around the home start using a Hand Sanitizer and itâ€™ll greatly reduce the risk of infection in your dwelling.
