Prom is considered as the best time for high school students to show off the beauty and unique personality and it is the special occasion that you are always dreaming to. It is full of dance and fun. What you need to prepare is to look for a perfect prom dress in order to make a sense that will last for a long time. The gowns for prom 2012 come in a variety of styles. It can be elegant floor-length or stylish short. Your choice depends on the formality of the special occasion. You have many options of the silhouettes such as A-line, princess, mermaid or trumpet, sheath or column. When it comes to the color, it takes part so look for the style that flatteries your color inclinations. Green might be your color, if you don't have a thought where to search for a flattering one, go on reading and you will get the answers in the content below.

First, you should consider which shade you are fond of. Green includes several different shades like apple green, emerald green and lime green. According to your skin tone, it is easy to pick out the most fitted shade.

Second, it is time to choose the style of your green prom dresses. Generally speaking, your body shape plays an important role in your choice. It is a crucial thoughtfulness in finding a skirt especially shopping online. You had better have a green pattern that matches your stature and make sure it can highlight your best features and conceal the parts you are not proud of. For example, if you feature perfect curves, there is no doubt that almost all patterns in green will look great on you. Of course, if you are a girl with pear shaped figure, the cut, A-line should be landed on the list of the best choice. It is the fabulous style that can steal the spotlight and it is popular for celebrities walking on the red carpet.

Where to buy your ideal prom gowns styles? Shopping in the local store or the shop online is advisable. In my opinion, it is much easier to find a cheap yet perfect one on the internet and the options are more. Budget is the important thing to think over for many women. You don't have to buy a pricey dress to look good. Especially, if you are on a tight budget, the gorgeous clothing from famous designers is not ideal for you. It is a good idea to keep your eye on the sales at local shops, boutiques and bridal stores and keep checking internet too!

Of course, for your perfect appearance, your hairstyle, make-up and accessories all should be taken into consideration. All should go well with the shade and silhouette of your green prom gown
