If someone is fond of playing card games and is also interested in buying a new one, then it is advisable that he should go for the most renowned trading card game nowadays, Magic The Gathering. It is not today that people have started playing card games. They are being played since years. The reason behind the intense popularity of such games is that, not only do they provide a good entertainment but also they makes use of the intelligent quotient of oneâ€™s mind, thereby increasing his level of knowledge in aptitude. Hence, the card games have gained intense popularity ever since their existence and Magic The Gathering is no exception. The uniqueness of this game is its USB. It is a amalgamation of oneâ€™s luck and skills. Various video games have also been developed which incorporates this game and it can now also be played online. The Play Station has launched this game and hence has becomes very famous not only among children but also among adults.

More about the game:

Te basic factor which helps a game to gain much popularity in different regions of the world is its storyline. It has to be interesting if the manufacturers of the game want it to be a hit. The two most mysterious things in a game of Magic The Gathering are wizards and magic. The cards that are used in this game are mostly magical cards which help people to enter in a world of magic which they otherwise would have only dreamed of. Just like the Harry Potter series which has become intense popular among the masses because it incorporated magic at different levels, same is the case with this game. it has enhance the people desire of experiencing magic. There are basically two broad categories of magical cards. The first is referred to as spells and the other one is called lands. If any player while playing gets a land card, then he would receive a magical fuel, which is termed as mana. The fuel is used to perform magic. The spells can further be classified into various types. Spells, as the name suggests are used to beat the other opponent by casting it on him. The war of magic is continued by using spells and lands and the opponent who loses all his life first, is declared as the loser of Magic The Gathering.

The magical cards

The magical cards that help in casting spells are of different types too. It is subdivided into 5 types. Each type has its own color. And each color of the card defines the unique nature of the card. The 5 different colors are green, blue, black, red and white. White magic is considered to be a good card. It is generally used for healing wounds and from prevention from any kind of damage. The black card, on the other hand is a evil card. Hence, each card as its own unique quality which a player can use for his advantage. It is the use of these cards that would affect the overall fate of a player in the game of Magic The Gathering.
