Hypnosis Good or a Bad by Mariana Nikki

Article published on January 7th 2012 | Health

There are many things in this world which can be used in both ways. In both ways come the good ones as well and even the bad ones are included in both. Now the choice of selection depends upon the person who has that ability to make the use of that thing. It is in the hand of that person, who uses this thing for the betterment of someone or for the worse situation of someone. Like in this world there are both the curing medicines and also the life taking medicines available. Now it depends upon the person that which medicine he or she takes and prefers the most. Like medicine; there many other examples in this world which can be used in the both ways. Similar to this condition there is a state known as hypnosis. Hypnosis is such a kind of state in which the person, who goes in this state gets completely unconscious. That person just gets sleep and gets under the control of the person who makes him in this state. That particular person works like a slave of that person who make him go in that state and the person who is capable of doing this act like the owner.

Now first we will talk about the good results of this extreme state. Well this state has vast applications in the fields of medical. Many of the doctors but especially the physicians are using this technique for the betterment of people.So this state is used by physicians for making people relief who are suffering from different kinds of mental stress and anxiety due to which they cannot live happily. The physicians then used this state and make things out from them which are really making them sick and after having them out they inform them to resolve those specific things and their life becomes happy. Then the hypnosis is also used for the physical therapy and even in the sports. Then this thing has also been used up as an entertainment source for the people. A person makes the people hypnotize and then he makes them do certain kind of acts which the audience enjoys.

The hypnosis is also been used by military forces and the other investigations teams. When they want some information from a particular person they make use of this state on that person and they get the important point from him and they resolve their problems.Now the bad effects of this state come. Many people who have the knowledge about this thing also use hypnosis for treating others in an inhumane way. Like if a person is jealous of someone, theymake him or her do wrong things by making him or her hypnotized. Then if a person wants to have the secrets of someone this is the best way for having those secrets from him. Worse things can be made possible from this technique if the doer of hypnosis is not a good person.
