Curtains Galore by Bond Wood

Article published on December 28th 2011 | Interior Design

A home can be easily beautified with some simple furnishings such as curtains. There are many types of curtains that can make a great difference to any space whether it is the home, office or public building. There are many functions of curtains too which encourage many forms, sizes, types of materials, length and designs.

Choices

Curtains can be readymade to be purchased off the rack or customized according to customerâ€™s specifications as every space is different. Some individuals prefer traditional styled curtains while others want contemporary designs which can be self-designed or from well known designers.

The myriad of choices for curtains enable any proud homeowner to change their curtains over time for a different look to the home. Alteration services are available to ensure that the customers get the desired pattern and design of curtains to fit the desired theme for their home. There is a plethora of matching accessories that include valences, tiebacks and cushion covers.

Tailored made curtains

As every home is different and every homeowner has different preferences, there is bound to be many types of curtains preferred. There is also the variety of fabric available to give the perfect curtain choice to bring on a stunning and stylish presentation to any home. Tailor made curtains allow one to choose any preferred fabric and headings for a personal style to the home or space.

Types of curtain designs

The range of curtain designs is quite unlimited. There are eyelets curtains that sport metal-edged holes of floor length with soft pleats all the way down. These are perfect for any living room or dining room. Then there are pencil pleat curtains that are standard headings for valances and curtains; these have a three inch header at the top with a three hook position for all track and pole types.

Panel or tab top curtains come suspended using a rod with loops or tabs at the panel top. Lightweight voiles curtains are usually transparent to allow natural light into the space but affording privacy. These can be used in conjunction with heavier curtains to cut off more light.

Tie back curtains help give the room a grander look with the curtains pulled back while valances sit at the top and in the center of the curtains. Valances can come in various widths to fit the window size. Blinds are another form of curtain designs that are always popular as they are neat while being functional.
