Glasgow, being one of the most diverse cities in Europe, has something for everyone. Those who enjoy fun-filled nights out will be pleased with the variety of clubs and pubs in the city, while those who enjoy sightseeing will find that the hotels in Glasgow city centre are ideally located for exploring the area.

Glasgow Sightseeing

The city of Glasgow has plenty of options when it comes to sightseeing. There are numerous museums for history enthusiasts that feature exhibits not just on international history, but on local history too. Glasgow also has a very strong art history, and there are numerous galleries that are open to the public. One of the best ways to get around all of the sights is to take a tour, of which there are several available including walking tours and bus tours.

Glasgow Shopping

Many visitors come to Glasgow for the excellent shopping facilities. There are many different shopping areas in the city, from the Barras Market for bargains to the designer stores that are dotted around the city. With so many shops to choose from, shoppers can stay occupied for hours. The city is also known for its variety of antique and vintage shops; perfect places to find that unusual item that just cannot be found anywhere else.

Glasgow Nights Out

Glasgow, that has its own ballet and opera companies, also has several theatres and concert halls in and around the city for those who prefer a cultural evening out. Alternatively, one could enjoy a traditional Scottish whisky at any one of the numerous pubs, or one could dine at one of the many fine restaurants that serve cuisines from all over the world. Many clubs in the area, including some that feature live bands, are ideal for those who enjoy dancing the night away.
