The capital of Massachusetts, Boston is home to over 4.5 million people; there has to be a lot of photographers to take care of that many people's photographic needs. According to Angie's list, there are over 1,081 photographers in the Boston area, which are not many considering how many people they have to serve. Of course, everyone wants the best photographer they can find for their special occasion and sifting through over a thousand photographers is, no doubt, a daunting task to say the least. The top Boston photographers in major areas specialize in weddings, portrait/family, events and commercial/aerial.

When choosing a wedding, corporate, real estate or any type of Boston Photographers, you must look at how much experience the photographer has and where they are located in relation to where your event will take place.

These are just a few of the top family and portrait photographers in the Boston area but there are many more to choose from. When choosing a photographer for family portraits choose one who specializes in that area and has lots of experience and good references.

Events cover several areas including some mentioned above but some photographers specialize in certain areas like weddings, corporate events, architecture or portraits and will not go photograph events such as birthdays, family, etc.

The only day in a person's life that is more important than their wedding is the birth of a baby. For most people the wedding comes first and the best way to commemorate that day is by choosing a good wedding photographer. There are many Boston & MA photographers but finding a good one, which will do what you want and capture images your way and just make suggestions instead of doing what they want to do and to heck with you is a different thing. Most qualified photographers in Boston are able to photograph any subject in any setting but what you want to do is focus on those who specialize in photographing in the Massachusetts area.

Commercial and Aerial photography is becoming very big in popularity and photographers in this area have grown by leaps and bounds. No matter who you get to photograph your wedding or event, make sure they have experience and their price fits in with our budget. However most of the time you get what you pay for. Therefore be very careful who you choose!

Figure out about how many hours you suspect the event will take, how long you want the party to last then go back to the prices that they quoted to you from the various Boston photographers you called and decide on which one fits into your budget. As soon as you make that decision, call that photographer and reserve the date before they get booked. You will want to do this as soon as you decide on date for your event. Many Boston MA photographers have shoots planned months in advance and you want to make sure you are able to book the best one.
