Community Spotlight: Mount Albert Homes by Robert Vadra

Article published on May 8th 2012 | Real Estate

As you drive through the community of Mount Albert, homes of all types are sure to charm you as much as the village itself. Mount Albert is a small community with a population of about 3500. Its history dates back to the 1800s. As such, many Mount Albert homes have a history. From charming cottages to expansive farmhouses, the area has an old-fashioned feel to it.

Mount Albert started as a Quaker farming community, and its rural heritage remains prominent. Even modern Mount Albert homes reflect the region's rural roots. Large lot sizes, compatible architectural designs, and developments surrounded by open space define many of the new Mount Albert home developments.

Mount Albert sits along the eastern boundary of the Town of East Gwillimbury. In fact, the downtown core is a distinct part of the Town of East Gwillimbury, and it features a vibrant business district with numerous shops, restaurants, services, and events. Nearby communities include Sharon and Holt to the west; Sutton and Zephyr to the north; and Musselman Lake, Newmarket, and Uxbridge to the south. Mount Albert is roughly 65 kilometers from Toronto, making it possible to work in the city and live in the country. If you're looking for new GTA homes with a rural feel and easy access to larger communities, consider Mount Albert homes.

One of the more notable new Mount Albert housing developments is Mount Albert Village by Oxford Homes of Canada. These Mount Albert homes feature all of the charm of small town living but are conveniently located. With six different models, various elevations, and lot sizes that include singles, semis, and estate lots, this neighborhood fits in perfectly. In all, fewer than 60 Mount Albert Village homes are planned.

Like many Mount Albert neighborhoods, these homes are located on a crescent shaped street. Mount Albert homes in this particular development are clustered along Donald Stewart Crescent which is located just off Ninth Line and is close to Vivian Creek Park.

Whether you're looking for new homes in Toronto, Newmarket homes, Stouffville homes, or Mount Albert homes, Mount Albert Village is worth exploring. Built by Oxford Homes, these Mount Albert Homes feature the creature comforts today's homebuyers want and the added appeal of country living. Expertly crafted, easily customised with your colour and finishing preferences, and backed by an unsurpassed quality commitment, these GTA new homes are far from ordinary. Visit Mount Albert Village and fall in love with a quieter way of life.
