Why Freebies UK are absolutely priceless? by Christian Aird

Article published on March 20th 2012 | Shopping

â€œThe best things in life are freeâ€• sang Luther Vandross and Janet Jackson â€“ and to be fair, for them that probably was the case. If youâ€™re a global celebrity companies fall over themselves to send you all sorts of freebies - clothes to wear, cars to drive, food to eat and gadgets to tinker with.

But when youâ€™re a mere mortal you find you have to pay for all the glorious goodies that comes so easily to the celebs. For the man and woman on the street itâ€™s true that thereâ€™s no such thing as a free lunch â€“ at least it used to be.

Because now thereâ€™s a way that the average Joe (or Josephine) can not only have a free lunch, they can have a free chance at winning a TV and hundreds more great free offers - and that way is called Freebies UK.

WOW Freebies UK is a website that provides its users with a comprehensive list of all the best free deals, competitions and offers on the internet. When you first visit the site you quickly notice that one of the best things about it is that it lays out all the different deals available in a by topic format, so not only is it extremely easy to navigate, but it also means that if youâ€™re searching for a specific deal â€“ for example free home and garden products - then all the available offers are only a simple click of the mouse away.

Unlike a lot of websites offering free deals, the Freebies UK website doesnâ€™t take your details and then bombard you with emails and clog up your inbox. When you use Freebies UK you simply receive a daily email telling you about all the free offers currently available. Freebies UK also have accounts on both Facebook and Twitter, so you can be sure youâ€™ll never miss out on any of the latest and greatest deals theyâ€™re offering.

The discounted goods industry has been booming of late, and sure, big websites like Groupon and KGB Deals offer you savings and discounts on goods and services â€“ but nearly all these goods and services require that you dip into your pockets and thus cost you money. With Freebies UK there are no hidden costs or extras you have to pay for, and you can usually find all of the details about the terms and conditions of the offers available on their individual websites.

As well as providing you with information about free deals and discounts Freebies UK also gives you information on how you can actually make money. The site is full of useful information and tips and tricks to make savings when youâ€™re purchasing, but it also contains information about things like paid surveys and voucher deals that not only make you money but help you make that money go further. The site also caries a list of all the competitions currently running that are free to enter.

In these troubled financial times only the very richest among us can afford not to give consideration to their finances, and if you can get anything from a bottle of shampoo to a chance at winning a new TV for free then there really is no good reason why you should pay for it.

After all, isnâ€™t it time we were all allowed to enjoy some of the perks of celebrity without having to write a cheesy song?
