Google Street View Finally in Israel by David Stainberg

Article published on April 27th 2012 | Technology

There are many ways these days to communicate and to learn about the things that are happening around the world but the internet is the most popular of them. The usage of the technology is now so big that many claim that in the future most of the news, the commercials etc, will be in the virtual world. Some even think that the television as a way to learn and to have fun is now too old and soon it will be replaced by much shorter clips on the internet – something which we already see in the growing popularity of sites like You Tube.

However, some countries like Israel were very sceptical to one of the services that Google provides – google Street view. After the pictures were made, the services in Israel did not allow the Americans to publish them on the web. This made many people to call to Israel before going there in order to understand more about the place and about the ways to travel, to book rooms and apartments, to learn about the culture of the place.

Now, at least the authorities allowed Google to publish the pictures and soon if you want to see Israel, or Golgotha you will not need to go there but only sit on your computer and see the place in google. All the pictures, all the information etc can be found there, which will save you a lot of money.

So, even Israel is now part of this global system which you can take advantage of.
