Fun in Capetown!

by John Wood

Article published on December 27th 2011 | Travel

Beautiful, exciting, thrillingâ€¦ these are the adjectives that we would ascribe to define a city that is blessed with so much natural beauty and splendor that it attracts tourists in hordes from all across the world. Cheap flights to Capetown are in high demand on travel portals that promise the best flight deals to all national and international destinations.

Cape Townâ€™s superb urban infrastructure is the first thing which one encounters when one first sets foot on the city after coming out of the airport. The well-maintained roads, manicured gardens and the steel and glass buildings which house the offices of multinational companies add to the aura of the city.

The most remarkable feature about Capetown is the Table Mountain that clearly ranks amongst the most beautiful mountains in Africa given the kind of flora that envelops it. To explore more flora and fauna in Capetown you can visit places like the Kirstenbosch National Botanical Gardens, Boulders Penguin Colony, Two Ocean Aquarium, and Robben Island. The Robben Island is one place where you would end up spending more time than required given its scenic natural beauty and splendor.

Cape Townâ€™s beaches like False Bay or Clifton offer just the right combination of sea, sand and sunshine to those looking to relax and unwind in the lap of nature. Those looking for some fun and adventure can indulge in water sports along the beachfronts like diving, kayaking, snorkeling, and kite surfing.

Another interesting aspect about Capetown is its fine-dining restaurants, bars and discotheques that sport a unique African dÃ©cor which you wonâ€™t find anywhere else. Cape Townâ€™s art galleries and markets are also well worth a visit as you can find a lot of interesting souvenirs and mementoes.

For more options visit the Canal Walk Shopping Centre in Century City, Cobble-stoned Green Market Square, Red Shed and Waterfront Craft markets that offer some exciting bargain deals on select items. The Canal Walk Shopping centre is home to some leading apparel brands who jostle for space so that they can grab both mindshare and market share in this international city that is at par with the best in the world.

Cape Townâ€™s scenic natural beauty has inspired many Bollywood directors to shoot full length feature films like Aankhen, All the Best and Andaaz that not only did well at the box-office but also inspired many other directors to explore Capetown as an ideal location for their movies.
