Article published on December 29th 2011 | Travel Tips

During your study in UK, you will have a variety of accommodation options available to you. Your choices will depend largely on whether your college or university has rooms of residence, what city you are located in, and the amount of your monthly budget. Students who complete a degree program in UK are allowed to apply for a one year extension to their visa to allow them to gain work experience in the UK, without obtaining a work permit. Universities in UK provide personalized guidance and counseling to help the students realize their dream of studying overseas while tailoring a path to suit their specific career aspirations.

Students studying in UK are now able to extend their visas and work for two years after completing a degree in a UK university, helping to make UK particularly attractive destination for international students. Whether your goals is career development, professional or learning something new. You can benefit from flexibility of a distance learning programme allowing you to balance your studies with your work and lifestyle commitments. While you study in UK you are allowed to work for 20 hours per week and you are recognized by employers for your ability to focus and apply yourself and for the valuable work experience.

Post study work visas allow talented non-EEA nationals who have graduated from a university in the UK to transfer to a tier 1 visa. This visa replaces the international graduates scheme IGS and the fresh talent; working in Scotland scheme. Migrants will be able to take employed work, or work as self-employed businesses people if they meet the requirements for a tier 1 post study visa, under the UK new points based system. The English language requirements will be competent English, which is a minimum score of 6 in each of the four components of the international testing language system or the equivalent score in another English language test that may be specified by the Minister for Immigration and Citizenship.

The Post-Study Work visa is approved based on applicants having successfully completed a course at a UK university or college. By studying and completing a UK course, applicants automatically meet the English language requirement. To qualify for a post study work visa, you need to have 75 points for having completed a HND qualification from a recognized Scottish institution, a UK bachelor degree, post graduate degree, certificate or diploma 20 points. The educational institution must be either on tier 4 sponsors or recognized in UK for 20 points, the qualification must have been obtained by the applicant while in the UK for 20 points and the application needs to be submitted within 12 months of the applicant completing their qualification.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/travel-tips-articles/study-in-uk-and-post-study-work-visa.htm - Article Side

Francis - About Author:
Francis is a professional SEM/SEO,link builder and article writer who writes on different niches.a
http://globalvisas.net.au/countries/

Article Keywords:
study in uk, post study work visa

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!