

Article published on February 16th 2012 | Writing

The wedding receptions have one of the most important aspects and this is wedding speech or wedding toasts. Basically, the purpose of these wedding toasts is to make the bride and the groom feel special, loved and blessed. The primary thing that you should keep in mind is that these speeches should always appear connected or linked to the wedding.

At a wedding or in a reception, the wedding speeches have a lot of significance. First of all, it is important to note that these speeches can be given by anyone, but primarily, groom's/bride's parents or bride's maid or best man are seen delivering them. The purpose of the speeches is to share something about the groom or the bride and also thanking the guests for coming or the host for organizing the special wedding. But mainly, it reflects the spirit of a wedding. It can be for blessing the couple, telling nitty-gritty about their lives and much more.

There can be different kinds of wedding toasts, but all these are always raised to the couple. The most common type of wedding speech is the Best Man's toasts, and in this type of speech, mostly the groom's life and memories are being shared with the people. The other kinds of wedding toasts are being given by family members in which an introduction to the other family members is being made. Sometimes, there can be "technological wedding toasts" in which the guests who have not been able to attend the wedding deliver their messages or blessings through videos.

Any traditional wedding toast will have certain considerations and you will always have to keep them in mind. To start off, it is important to introduce yourself and describe your relation with the bride/groom. The middle part of the wedding toast will form the major portion and will include certain aspects like humor, emotions and certain anecdotes. Finally, in the conclusion, it is important to thank the guests for coming or thank the hosts for the wedding, as the case may be. You should basically end it on a positive tone.

Basically, the wedding speeches are an expression of your personal joy and pleasure towards the couple. It is a way to express your happiness for the couple and also a way to bless them. Besides, it can be a nice style to introduce people to the groom/bride or family members. It can allow everyone to enjoy a good time. The video-tape wedding toasts can be really innovative and can be an element of surprise in anyone's wedding.

Even though wedding speeches should be written in the best possible way and should not hurt anyone's emotions in any way, but sometimes while including the comical element, people tend to embarrass or hurt someone. Make sure that your wedding toasts are more of comfort than anything else. It should be positive and should bring a smile to everyone's face, till the end. Therefore, it is important to write and re-read the speech several times before actually delivering it.

Article Source:

<http://www.articleside.com/writing-articles/everything-you-should-know-about-wedding-speeches.htm> - Article Side

Ashish Pandey - About Author:

a Wedding toasts are a great way to bless the newly-wed couple, but it is very important that you should write it in the very positive tone. Writing a wedding speeches can be a bit tedious.

Article Keywords:

Wedding toasts, wedding speeches

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!